L. T. Harding is the new operator at Alma, vice Alfred Yocum.

Not a mile of railroad laid in Nebraska this year, and but 500 miles in the United States.

Freight business has been flourishing on this division the past two weeks. Long may it continue.

George Laverty returned to Pond Creek, Oklahoma, last week, after a short business visit here.

W. H. Welty, formerly agent at Pineo, Colorado, is helping in the Sheridan, Wyoming, office now.

Supt. Phelan of the Wyoming division has bought him a plow and will experiment in sub-soil cultivation, the coming season.

Conductor Beal was fitted out with a new freight crew and way car, Tuesday. In fact the freight crew business is distinctly looking up.

B. & M. Yardmaster Holbrook undertook to butt a box car off the track, last Sunday and suffered a severe bruise over the eye that will take skill and careful nursing to heal.—Hastings Democrat.

V. M. McCurdy of McCook, a former Curtis railroad boy, was renewing old acquaintance the first of the week. Mr. McCurdy is now located at McCook as engineer on the main line.—Curtis Enterprise.

J. Noyce, an employe of the B. & M. at this place, was married to Miss T. Brunswick at Indianola, Saturday. They returned home in the evening. Wednesday night they were serenaded by the tin can and cow bell brigade.—Arapahoe Pioneer.

According to a German authority the total length of railroad lines in the world is about 1,006,000 miles of which 540,000 miles are in America alone, and in the United States there are about 400,000 miles, which is the greatest in any one country.

Conductor Odell had the misfortune to lose a fine little driving horse, last Sunday. Himself and wife were returning from visiting relatives out in Perry precinct. At George Poh's farm the animal stumbled and fell, breaking its shoulder, and in consequence had to be killed. They had the pleasure and exercise of a walk to the city from the Poh farm.

Eliphalet Holbrook, sometimes called "Shorty," a B. & M. switchman, came near being killed in the yards, Sunday. In attempting to jump on an engine he missed the mark and was thrown violently against it, the force being such that he was thrown back and away from the engine and thus escaped a violent death.—Hastings Tribune.

His surname saved him.

The time card for the Burlington extension to Billings has already been made up by General Passenger Agent Francis. Through sleepers and chair cars will run through from Omaha with reservations for Helena and Portland. Trains for Edgemont, Hot Springs and Deadwood will run the same as at present. A train will leave Lincoln in the evening and arrive at Billings at 9:35 the next night. A returning train will leave Billings at 7 p. m. and arrive in Lincoln the next evening.—Lincoln Journal.

Mr. J. E. Sanborn, a popular railroad engineer, who makes his headquarters in this city, affords a very reasonable illustration of how an economical and enterprising man can prosper in Nebraska. Mr. Sanborn is a typical Yankee gentleman, having left his native home in New Hampshire some years ago and settled in this state. He has always since coming here enjoyed a lucrative position with the B. & M., and is highly esteemed by his employers and all the employes of his acquaintance. He has a most beautiful farm near the flourishing town of Haigler, consisting of 160 acres, which with the exception of 20 acres is well irrigated, and yields abundantly despite the severe drought. He is very proud of his farm, and well he may be, for it bids fair to make him a fortune in due time. This year his land produced an enormous crop of everything profitable to the Nebraska farmer. Mr. Sanborn holds the throttle of his favorite engine, while his tenant harvests ten acres of potatoes yielding 125 bushels per acre, and selling readily at from 75 cents to $1 per bushel. He has perhaps 80 acres of corn that yields a good crop; several thousand bushels of wheat; one thousand bushels of oats and an endless variety of garden stuff; and perhaps $600 worth of onions. Mr. Sanborn has taken great interest in alfalfa raising, and harvests three crops per year. His farm is well improved with a palatial two-story frame house, surrounded by fruit and shade trees and numerous outbuildings. Fine bred stock roams the place in endless variety, and it is really a pleasure to visit his farm and note the almost incredible profit derived from one piece of land containing 160 acres. While Mr. Sanborn is progressive and ambitious, he is by no means stingy, and with a justifiable recognition from fortune bids fair to become a wealthy man.—Red Cloud Chief.
